FLYERS PREPARE FOR TRANSATLANTIC HOP

Harry Richman, night club singer and sportsman flyer, and Dick Merrill, veteran air mail pilot, made final preparations for the round trip flight they hope to make from New York to London after arriving at Floyd Bennett field from California in their big Vultee monoplane, shown in upper photo. At lower left Richman is shown stuffing into the plane's wings some of the 30,000 table tennis balls with which the flyers plan to keep the ship afloat if she should drop into the ocean. The route of the proposed flight is indicated in the map at lower right. (Associated Press Photos)

Day Is Day
Visitors at Camp Happyland

Sunday, August 23rd will be visiting day at Camp Happyland on Clinton avenue, where 48 little girls have been making merry since August 3.

In July the same number of boys had a wonderful time, more active, more noisy but no more hungry for seconds, and clean plates are always in order.

The girls have formed into teams "Our Gang," "Yanks," "Marines" and "Ducklings" and are working hard in their respective groups.

Captains are keeping a close watch on their mates in play, at rest, in the dining room, in fact everywhere, for camp citizenship and sportsmanship play a big part in Camp Happyland program.

In the game of weights the girls have gained more than the boys 148 1/2 lbs. have been added in two weeks by the 48 girls. A concert by the WPA band is given to the children every Wednesday afternoon and is much enjoyed by the girls while they are busy writing home to mother, daddy or other members of the family.

Thursday afternoon the girls will go to the lake and carry a lunch to the end of a long trail into a pine woods where lots of fun and games will be played during the evening. The girls are looking forward to the camp life and sing with plenty of ex-songs by the campers.

The children hope that many visitors will avail themselves of the opportunity to visit them on Sunday between 3 and 5 o'clock and see their fine camp, and new recreation hall which has been used a great deal this month, for dramatics, stunt nights, and games on rainy days, also, to see new life and health obtained at Camp Happyland through the sale of Christmas Seals in Ulster county.

FOOD SCARCITY FORCES
CHINESE TO RELIGION.

Peiping (AP)—Under the general economic slump and prevailing hard times, many Chinese apparently have espoused Buddhism not only as a religion but also as a "profession." Officials point to the steady increase of Buddhist followers in recent years, especially in districts affected by famine, banditry and other calamities.

The present number of Chinese men and women who have entered monasteries as monks or nuns, according to the China Buddhist Association, is 738,000. They are fed domiciled by the monasteries without charge, and their only religion is to pray and meditate for their own salvation and that of the world.

Fragrant "Glads"
Feature of Show

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Many new types of gladiolus have appeared in recent years, but the fragrant gladiolus, as typified by the varieties Sweet and Lovely and Incense are still unknown to many growers, says Dr. A. M. S. Pridham of the New York state college of agriculture.

These fragrant "glads" will be featured at the annual gladiolus show in Ithaca, August 21 and 22. Growers from New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New Jersey, Maryland, Massachusetts, and Vermont will convene to exhibit and to study the latest varieties from home and abroad.

A special section of the show will be devoted to seedlings among which a new double-flowered type is expected to be exhibited for the first time.

Expect Good Supply. A good supply of high quality flowers is expected by show time. Since the 1936 season has been irregular both for flowers and crops, it appeared likely for a time that the show could not be held, but favorable reports the past two weeks of the condition of gladiolus in New York and neighboring states assured the success of exhibitions.

This is the ninth annual exhibition of the empire state gladiolus society and the fourth to be staged at Cornell University. Interest has mounted each year, says Dr. Pridham, and the exhibit has grown in importance until now it is one of the largest of its kind in the world.

In addition to displays of "glads", central and southern New York member clubs of the federated garden clubs of New York will take part in the show. The state college of agriculture will also have displays by the department of horticulture, the department of entomology, and the department of publications.

The program also includes lectures and demonstrations on the control of plant diseases, aids in flower arrangement, and inspection of the Cornell gardens where mulching and fertilizing tests are underway.

According to Dr. Pridham, "glads" are in brisk demand on local markets in central New York. Several growers report they have been selling flowers for the past two weeks and that the quality was steadily improving as the season advanced.

event a British ship was fired upon it would return three warning shots ahead of the offending craft and then "We shall aim."

The Madrid government, these quarters stated, has been informed that all British ships will be protected from interference, and it was made clear that in the event of un toward action by Spanish vessels Great Britain will take equally firm steps to safeguard her own craft.

Germany, following the reported search of the German steamer Kamerun by a Spanish Loyalist warship, let it be known yesterday her own navy will answer "force with force." Informed quarters stressed the British action, while paralleling that of Germany, was independent of the Reich.

It was pointed out that Great Britain, since the beginning of the civil war, has made it clear to both sides they would be held responsible for injury to British nationals.

British vessels from the start were escorted through danger zones.

Today's warning that British ships would reply in kind to shelling applied also to planes of both the Loyalists and the Rebels which have been maneuvering over Gibraltar.

Gas Bomb Manufacture

By RAMON BLARDON

(Copyright 1936, by Associated Press.) Madrid, Aug. 21.—Manufacture of gas bombs by Spanish rebels at Zaragoza was reported by refugees reaching here today.

Several factories already were turning out the deadly weapon of war, the refugees were quoted as saying in Madrid news agency dispatches.

The northern city where the factories were reported functioning has been held by rebels since the outset of the revolt.

The Socialist government here denied Fascist charges that its troops were using gas of any kind, although a recent Paris dispatch stated that Loyalist troops had used tear gas bombs in driving back a rebel attack.

Fascist headquarters at Burgos also had charged that Loyalist militia had used poison gas in at least one engagement.

Vigorous steps to stamp out Fascist sympathies were continued by the government with reports from Loyalist Valencia that a public safety committee had been established there with full power to conduct trial.

The committee announced "it was endowed with full authority by the people and shall be the only court that may judge those implicated in the Fascist movement."

A smaller committee organized by labor organizations functioned in Madrid.

New Attack On Mallorca

On the battlefield, a new attack on the Mediterranean island of Mallorca was reported with Loyalists claiming a steady advance toward Palma, the capital.

"Although there has been heavy firing," Captain Bayo of the Mallorca expedition reported, Loyalists were advancing steadily, many rebels were deserting and Catalan flags were requested for display at captured cities.

At the Catalan capital, Barcelona, preparations were made to court martial 74 military leaders accused as rebels.

An anti-Fascist committee ordered all civilians possessing arms and not enrolled in the militia to surrender them within 48 hours under penalty of arrest.

Fighting continued in the Guadarrama mountains outside Madrid with new victories claimed by Colonel Julio Mangada at Navalperal.

Loyalists were reported strengthening positions near Teruel while Catalan columns reported the capture of Capse, near Zaragoza. Other reports stated that Loyalists had surrounded the city of Huesca further north of Zaragoza.

In the Guadarrama skirmishes, Socialist militia cleared they routed rebels and captured arms, ammunition and food provisions.

Four hundred rebels were taken prisoner, the governor said. Machine guns and a number of rifles were among the arms seized.

The war ministry contended Loyalists had completely beaten back the rebels in the Sierra Guadarrama chain and that attack upon Madrid through that section now was impossible.

Loyalists bombarded the town of Belchite and buildings in which fascists fortified themselves were reported fired.

French Pressure Increased

Paris, Aug. 21 (AP).—Reports that the French government was bringing pressure to draw an apology from the Madrid regime for the alleged search of a German steamer were circulated today without official confirmation.

The Paris administration, it was said, would insist that Madrid promise there would be no repetition of the incident in which the official German news agency claimed, the German steamer Kamerun was searched beyond Spanish territorial waters.

While Germany rushed warships to Spanish waters as an outgrowth of the Kamerun affair, French fears increased that Spain's civil war might spread.

Informed persons said they believed France would have to join Great Britain in a joint mediation effort in Spain, as no sole neutrality front had yet come out of France's attempts to localize the Spanish conflict.

The leftist French press, supporting the popular front government of Premier Leon Blum, displayed antagonism toward Germany in the Spanish crisis.

Blum's own newspaper, Le Populaire, charged Reichsfuehrer Hitler was "exploiting a minor incident" to stir what it said was an anti-Semitic case—the holding of the British ship Trent during the American Civil War and the eventual admission of Britain that the French steamer Kamerun was searched.

The French government, it was said, would insist that Madrid promise there would be no repetition of the incident in which the official German news agency claimed, the German steamer Kamerun was searched beyond Spanish territorial waters.

ions, protests in the name of international law."

It added the reported Spanish search of the Kamerun was "perfectly legal" in view of the Madrid government's belief that Germany was aiding the Fascist rebels.

Le Matin, raising the constant French fear of the German nation on France's eastern border, asserted the Reich was throwing all its energy into strengthening fortifications in the Rhineland, remilitarized by Hitler last March in violation of the Versailles peace treaty.

French authorities at Metz investigated the flight of what was described as a German airplane over the French frontier fortifications near Boulay.

300 on Hunger Strike

Berlin, Aug. 21 (AP).—Three hundred coal miners at Eichenau, in Polish Upper Silesia, staged a hunger strike inside the mines today, the newspaper Tagblatt reported. The men demanded their unpaid wages.

Official Drouth Territory

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP).—The entire state of Kansas was designated as official drouth territory today by the agriculture department drouth committee in certifying 25 more counties in that state as emergency areas. These designations, with two more counties in both Iowa and Kentucky, pushed the national total to 1,021 counties in 22 states. In addition to Kansas, all counties in North and South Dakota and Oklahoma are on the official list.

G-Men Chuckle

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP).—The G-men are chuckling over this one. A man escaped from a small town jail recently and the police chief, whom justice department agents do not name, sent six pictures of the fugitive, each a different pose, to the police chief of a nearby city. A few hours later he received this telegram: "Have arrested five of the men; expect to have the sixth within a few hours."

Joint Action on Stock Swindlers

Washington, Aug. 21 (AP).—Joint action to stamp out stock swindlers who operate across the United States-Canadian border and victimize investors on both sides was disclosed today by securities commission officials.

Officials said they are pushing negotiations for a series of agreements aimed at fraudulent international operations in securities.

One agreement already has been concluded with the Ontario securities commission calling for joint action by that body and the securities commission here against operators who maintain offices in one country and use "high pressure" methods against investors in the other.

Officials said John T. Callahan, assistant general counsel of the United States agency, is in Quebec negotiating an agreement with provincial officials. Later, it was said, he will visit other Canadian provinces seeking similar understandings.

Purpose of the agreements is to set up machinery under which Canadian and American securities authorities can move against firms which use the long distance telephone or other methods to carry on fraudulent stock transactions.

Officials asserted that in some cases the agreements will do away with extradition procedure by making possible prosecution in the country from which the illegal operations emanate.

Resolutions Proposed

Toronto, Aug. 20 (AP).—Proposed resolutions urging the United States government to condemn the Mexican government for its alleged treatment of the church were placed today before the closing session of the Knights of Columbus International

JAY E. KLOCK

It is with a sense of deepest sorrow that today The Freeman must announce the death of its president and publisher, Jay E. Klock. A feeling of sorrow pervades the office, gloom shows on the face of every employee, for our leader, counselor and guiding hand has departed this life.

Mr. Klock was not of the "glad-hand" variety of gentlemen, but he had a large circle of genuine friends who knew and appreciated the great and numerous sides to his character. The employees of his office came to him with many troubles and always found a sympathetic friend and adviser who managed to iron out their difficulties. Among all his acquaintances these men and women will miss him most. They too, will miss him, who served him at his home and outside his business enterprise.

Although suffering from failing health for the last few years, Mr. Klock until a week ago attended the office each morning except on rare occasions, and was until the last the guiding spirit in the publication of this paper. His aid and advice was sought on every major policy and principle that came up in this office and this was the victory and glory that made this paper what it is. Others may have aided him in the work but always the last word came from Mr. Klock.

A hard worker, blessed with great mental capabilities, Mr. Klock through the years put his body and mind to the test and so well did they serve their master that from a small and insignificant newspaper the Freeman has grown under his care and loving hand to an institution to be admired and universally respected. With growing of this paper his business houses have perished and most of them at time or another depended on him for aid. Mr. Klock's pages could be written by pages of his achievements and the greatness of the man. All of all these was the aid of his employees and friends. To them, and to the aid of Mr. Klock, the Freeman is a loyal friend who served his fellow men as much as they served him.

THE AMERICAN SPIRIT

German students traveling in this country visited Harvard University the other day, where they not only had a heart-warming experience but were also told some truths not much mentioned in their own land under Nazism. The leader of the group explained their trip as an effort to understand the spirit of the United States. They were particularly impressed by the fact that the Church to the students who died for their fatherland, listened to Dr. McGarrison, who was the director of the school.

It is the fact that all races and all nations have contributed to the American spirit. The American spirit is the spirit of the American people, the spirit of the American people, the spirit of the American people. The American spirit is the spirit of the American people, the spirit of the American people, the spirit of the American people.

HOT DOG VINDICATION

No less an authority than George Rector, retired chef and manager of the long famous but now vanished Rector's Restaurant in New York, has spoken words of praise for the "hot dog." It annoys him to have people make fun of it and particularly to hear them question its ingredients. Hot dogs, in his opinion, "are better food than many of the fancy things all of us eat." Figures show that more pounds of hot dogs are consumed in this country regularly than of any other meat, which seems to indicate that if they were harmful practically the whole American nation would be ill. Perhaps these pronouncements should be taken with salt, or at least with a little salt water. They were spoken at Atlantic City where the hot dog is a major commodity. Still and all, the hot dog really is worth defending. It is so convenient to serve and to eat that it is a natural favorite with a people given to eating on the run and at all sorts of outdoor affairs from a ball game to a picnic.

THE BACK YARD FARM.

Experts at Iowa State College have been coming to the conclusion that the back yard farm is here to stay, at least in Iowa. Many city workers turned to garden plots to raise as much as possible of their food during the hardest of the hard time. Now they are satisfied to take part-time jobs as recovery proceeds, keeping on with their cultivation of small acreages. Ray E. Wakely of the college sociology department says these urbanized farmers are in a class by themselves, being neither city nor farm people as such classes are understood. After a comprehensive study of ten Iowa cities, he states:

Generally speaking, the part-time or back-yard farmer thinks his way of living is best for himself. Nine out of ten said they prefer to live on a part-time farm. Indications are the increases in the number of part-time farms during the depression will be maintained and future increases may be expected.

This is a development long foretold. It is interesting to see that in one locality, at least, it has come to pass.

DOES FOOD AFFECT HEALTH?

People today are studying the number of heat units of their daily food intake, and likewise the amount of vitamins and minerals therein. Thus we see advertised vitamin D bread, sunshine milk, proprietary foods containing lime, iron, phosphorus and other food products. All of this is of interest of course but the advertising began to so upset the minds of the average individual that it was necessary for Prof. McCollum, Johns Hopkins University, to remind him that in addition to his usual meal of meat, potatoes and bread he were to add some milk and raw fruit or raw vegetables at least once a day. He need not think further about vitamins and minerals.

However as a matter of scientific fact you and I are really what our food makes us, and it is indeed fortunate that the foods best suited to our requirements are readily available.

The London correspondent of the Journal of the American Medical Association reports a series of three lectures given by Sir Robert McCarrison to the Royal Society of Arts on Nutrition and National Health. Dr. McCarrison states that the greatest single factor in attaining and maintaining good health is perfectly constituted food. The level of the physical efficiency of the Indian races (among which Dr. McCarrison spent many years) was, above all else, a matter of diet.

No other single factor—race, climate, disease common to the district and the like—had so profound an influence on their physique. The physique of the races of northern India was strikingly superior to that of the southern, eastern and western races. The northern Indians lived on whole wheat, milk and milk products, vegetables and fruit; those of the southern, eastern and western districts lived on rice and inferior cereals which were further reduced in food value by parboiling, milling or polishing, and they had little milk or milk products.

Experiments on a large number of albino rats with the two diets showed the same effects upon the rats. The rats thrived on the diet of the northern Indians and were free from disease, but if the milk and milk products were reduced, chest and stomach and intestinal diseases appeared, especially if the fruit vegetables were also reduced in amount. Dr. McCarrison stated further that as the diet of many of the British people is made up of the excessive use of wheat flour from which the bran has been removed and on which are also of vitamins sugar, salt and fat, it is not surprising that the health of the British people is not as good as it should be.

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marion Sims

SYNOPSIS: Carol Thornton is a girl who has been in the world for a long time. She has a job in a big city, and she is a very good girl. She has a lot of friends, and she is very popular. She is a very good girl, and she is a very good girl.

Chapter 25 ABOUT IRMA

"I'M NOT so sure about mixing business and pleasure, or getting identified with Blake, even as casually as that. Get some unmarried ones," she laughed, "and let us look each other over."

"All right. It's your party." There was regret in Cornelia's voice as she relinquished Blake.

"What is his wife like?" Carol demanded. "I asked Marge, but you know how much I got out of her."

"She's a vixen," Cornelia said crisply. "It was one of those adolescent infatuations that boys have for beautiful older women, and she was just low enough to gobble him up. Blake was twenty-two and she was twenty-nine; old enough to know better, but he looked like her last chance. I don't believe she ever cared

Cornelia rose and stretched like a sleek cat.

much about him—or about anybody, except Irma. Now her looks are going, and consequently her nervous health can't stand the rigors of a Georgia climate!"

"But couldn't you think she'd be afraid to leave a man like Blake at the mercy of the culler?"

"Oh, he's a martyr on the altar. She knows he wouldn't divorce her without some flagrant cause, and she stays at home just enough to retain—or contact. And she's not apt, now, to find a lover to furnish the cause."

"They never had any children?"

"No. She used to go around sobbing and bawling about it at first, but that was for the gallery. She's always been neurotic."

"Sweet," Carol commented grimly, thinking of Blake's taut mouth and the coldness of his eyes.

"Very." Cornelia dipped her lace quered nails delicately into a finger bowl. "What'll we do now?"

"Go home, I guess. It's after nine, and I'm still a little battered after a day's work. Why can't you stop in for a few minutes and see where I live? I'll give you a liqueur for a nightcap."

"I'll be delighted."

THEY drove out in Cornelia's roadster, that was as trim and shiny as Cornelia herself. It was disconcerting to reflect that she, who had so much, was groping too. She hadn't even the excuse of comparative poverty to lean back on.

She took in Carol's apartment at a glance, and nodded. "Damn nice, especially in view of what you had to work with. I wish it were mine."

Cornelia sipped her drink and smiled. "Not bad for a working girl."

"Oh, this was Pat's partying gift, and the glasses came from home. In half a dozen years, Lord knows, when I get any more."

"There's plenty available."

"Yeah. The only catch is in paying for it."

They talked lazily for half an hour, then Cornelia rose and stretched like a sleek cat.

"I'll phone you about Friday," Cornelia said. "What time, and who'll pick you up, and all the rest. And maybe we can have lunch in the meantime."

She dragged on her hat without

ABSENTEEISM DECIDED FOR CENTURY-OLD CASE

Buenos Aires (AP)—A Buenos Aires civil courtroom resounded with cheers of 24 litigants after Judge Debonch had induced them to agree to arbitrate a property case which dated back almost 100 years.

Title of property 500 yards wide and several miles long along the river Rio de la Plata and north hundreds of thousands of acres is at stake.

A century ago, before the war, a Frenchman and his wife got into a dispute over property rights, and the case had been in the courts intermittently since.

TALKS TO PARENTS

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

It is not only in respect to one's own children that problems arise. Sometimes it is the problems of other people's children that one has to face. Often these are more difficult to deal with than those closer home.

Mary X is not happy at home. Her mother is a nervous nagger, her father too strict and strait-laced. She is the best friend of Mrs. Y's daughter, and in the Y's house finds the peace and understanding which are denied her at home.

She confides in Mrs. Y and even complains to her about her parents. Mrs. Y finds herself faced with a double responsibility—her duty to the child and her duty to the child's parents.

Shall she risk Mary's friendship by going to her parents and telling them how Mary feels and the wrong they are doing her? Shall she sympathize with Mary and side with her against her own people? Mrs. Y probably will be tempted to use the power which has been put into her hands. It is very flattering to be thus chosen as confidante.

But how would she feel if her daughter were in the same predicament? What would she think the wisest course if she were the other mother? Let her ask this question with real honesty and faithfully abide by the answer.

She probably will not break the child's confidence by going to her parents. That would leave the girl with no refuge—no safety-valve for her emotions. On the other hand she will not sympathize with Mary unduly or encourage her resentfulness.

She may be able to tact and real thought for Mary's welfare once more to bring the child and her family together. Perhaps she can even persuade Mary herself to have a frank talk with her father and mother which may clear up the matter without outside interference.

Sundown Stories

They All Hunt

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

TO five other places before he finally found the treasure that Willy Nilly had hidden for him in the treasure hunt.

Jolly Bear followed directions and went to a corn patch where he thought the treasure would very likely be found, only to be directed on to a patch of woods, thence back of Willy Nilly's house and from there down to the pond and then back again to Willy Nilly's automobile Two-Ways. In it he found a jar containing jelly.

It was the same with all of them. They had to look in many number of places before they found their presents, and the hunt was made much more interesting that way.

Always, of course, they were given directions. When they would be directed to one spot only to find the treasure was not there, they would find another note of direction telling them where to go next.

After the hunt was over, and the Fiddle Muddlers were enjoying their treasures, Christopher Columbus Crew said:

"Let's do a treasure hunt for Willy Nilly."

"Quick, quick, that would be ducky!" quipped the ducks.

"Now, we'll certainly have a treasure hunt for Willy Nilly," boasted Al. "Let's start at once."

"Now you sit in front of your house and don't stir until we call you, ha, ha," boasted Sweet Face, the lamb.

"We'll go up to the cave and make our plans," said Honey Bear.

So Willy Nilly waited while the Fiddle Muddlers talked over their ideas for a treasure hunt for the little ghost-like man.

WASHINGTON — The part that members of the house play in selecting new postmasters within their districts has been so drastically cut in the opinion of postal officials that a flood of protest is expected from the coming congress.

Congressmen still may continue the present postmaster in office or call for competitive examinations for new ones.

By long practice, house members have been able to recommend as a candidate any one of the three receiving the highest marks in the examination. But under the executive order issued by President Roosevelt July 20 no choice is left. The job goes to the candidate who passes the examination best, unless it can be shown to the civil service commission that his character or residence disqualifies him.

Some Democratic congressmen have complained to postal officials that even with three candidates from whom to choose it was often hard enough to find a deserving Democrat.

Ways Around Order
One avenue out of that situation is that the postmaster general and the affected congressman can try to prove that an undesirable candidate is disqualified for character or residence reasons. That method is often a waste of time.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, Aug. 21.—Many inquiries are going the rounds as to whether the annual Olive reunion at Lambert's grove will be held this year. To everyone thus in doubt, according to Martin J. Every, Secretary Elwyn Davis and other old timers, the reply is unreservedly "yes," provided Labor Day is not rained out as for the last two years. There is no program except that Phoenixia band will be on hand and play under a canvas if necessary.

Robert Bishop is back with his brother, Don, again after enjoying a two weeks' beach browned sojourn in Atlantic City. Mrs. E. E. Henry and Mrs. Emma Potter of Kingston, also John D. Van Kleeck and other well known old Colonial residents were among the hundreds attending the West Shokan church fair and supper Wednesday evening.

Cornelia Davis is enjoying a few days' vacation with her former grammar school teacher, Mrs. Edward West, of Alleghen.

A light but refreshing shower accompanied the electrical disturbance here late Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Joseph Mooney of Kingston visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every, at Traver Hollow, on Wednesday.

The regular Thursday evening prayer meeting at the community church was not held this week due to the close proximity of the fair and supper. Preaching services will be held Sunday morning at the customary hour of 10:30 o'clock.

A half dozen members of the West Shokan Scout troop enjoyed a camping trip this week in the wilds of Watson Hollow. They were chaperoned by Scoutmaster Charles H. Weidner.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Beesmer of Winchell district are away on a visit to her brother's in Ohio. They expect to be gone a week and stop at Niagara Falls on their way back.

Mrs. Mary Moore and family and city guests were among Samsonville representatives attending the church fair here Wednesday.

Judge and Mrs. Henry Winchell of Sunny Cliff Farm are contemplating a vacation trip through New England, Maine, and eastern Canada.

With the annual holding of the Baptist Church fair and supper held Wednesday afternoon and evening West Shokan enjoyed its greatest home coming success since the big social affairs in pre-revolution days, when Crispell's famous maple grove was a county wide gathering place. It is conservatively estimated that 600 people were present. Supper was served in the church basement at 6 o'clock and the first wave swept clean the 50 pounds of savory chicken served as the leading item in the bill of fare. The local stores were called upon again and again for additional food supplies as the tables set for 96 persons were cleared and refilled. Rain which had threatened earlier in the day held off well until the affair had ended, though doubtless still others from distances did not come due to the weather threat. Prof. R. B. Longyear and the Phoenixia band arrived well before the supper hour and at once proceeded to set up their out of door establishment and proceeded to make the atmosphere resound with their stirring melodies. During the evening E. H. Friedricks, the well known entertainer, set up his "crystal-phone" on the church entrance platform and played several selections to piano accordion accompaniment. He also gleaned music from a string of tomato cans and played two selections on his cornet. His unique performance was majestically applauded. Within the church auditorium the various attractive booths offering fancy articles and other items were much visited and patronized. Practically everything was sold out. One of the old timers welcomed back to the scene of his nativity was John D. Van Kleeck of Kingston, who was born and reared in West Shokan. Other prominent Kingstonians noted were ex-Sheriff and County Treasurer Artie Rice, Attorney Chris J. Flanagan, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Rose, Mrs. E. E. Henry, also a native of West Shokan, Mrs. Emma Potter, Mrs. Joseph Mooney and others. It was also noted that Highland and many other sections of the county were well and prominently represented. The Ladies' Aid Society through its very capable and genial president, Mrs. Nettie Jones, wishes to express the greatest measure of thanks for the ever ready cooperation extended so wholeheartedly by one and all, whose presence or generosity helped to make this annual event the greatest of all successes. The Phoenixia band concert was sponsored by the public spirited generosity on the part of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Bell.

ARDONIA

Forrest Imperato and Eugene Paltridge attended a Firemen's meeting at the home of A. D. Wager in Modena Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Eber Palmer, Jr., were callers in Clintondale Monday evening.

Mrs. Dan Reilly and sons visited relatives in Modena Tuesday.

Miss Helen Palmer was a guest of her sister, Miss Marian Palmer, on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Ronk entertained relatives at their home Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Dedrick Ronk and children spent Wednesday at the home of her parents in Modena.

Mrs. William Deolittle and daughters, Evelyn and Lucille, were visitors in town Wednesday.

Spitale is Free

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—Salvatore Spitala, whose aid was sought in the underworld search for the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, was free today of charges of vagrancy preferred in magistrate's court. He was arrested August 11 at a Bayville golf course. Spitala's attorney described his client as a respectable business man with an income of $6,000 a year from investments and a liking for golf. Witnesses testified Spitala owned interests in a hotel at Newark, N. J., a night club at Miami Beach, Fla., and a race-track betting business licensed to operate in New York state. Police had said the man had no visible means of support. Magistrate Gustav Wieboldt dismissed the charges.

FREED IN STERILIZATION CASE

Dr. Samuel G. Boyd (left) and Tilton E. Trivison happily congratulate each other after winning charges against them in connection with the sterilization of Ann Cooper Hewitt, known, were dismissed in San Francisco. The judge said cooperation of the trial would be "wasteful."

Better Attendance Or No More Dances

Another of the community dances will be held at the Municipal Auditorium Monday night, with music by Marshall's Cooper Kings and special solo numbers by Paul Purcell.

According to Paul Zucca, chairman of the Common Council committee in charge of these affairs, which were resumed July 13 because of popular demand, Monday night's dance will be the last unless there is a better attendance than has been had of late. He says that they need an attendance of around 300, in order to pay musicians, electricians, etc., and allow the city anything for use of the auditorium.

ELLENVILLE RACE TRACK BECOMES A PLAYGROUND

The old race track that was a part of the Ulster County Fairs of some years back will soon be only a memory.

The location has been purchased by the Board of Education of Wawarsing School District Number 29, and will be transformed into a playground for the village. A modern baseball diamond is being put out under the direction of Edward P. Terwilliger, commissioner of public works.

The smithy of J. L. Pratt, 74, at Essex, Conn., is the last structure to occupy the same site, which has been in the family for 253 years.

The city limits of Honolulu take in Palmyra island, 1,000 miles to the south.

Electoral Votes Count in Electing President

A president may be elected by a minority, or less than half of the total number of popular votes cast. This is possible, explains a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, because the president and vice president are not elected directly by popular vote, but by electors who are chosen by popular vote. A candidate for president receives all or none of the electoral votes cast by a state, except in rare instances when the electoral vote of a state is split. Hence, it is possible for a minority of the voters of the country as a whole to elect a majority of the presidential electors.

In the election of 1824 none of the four candidates for president received a majority of either the electoral or the popular votes, and John Quincy Adams was chosen by the House of Representatives in accordance with the method prescribed by the Constitution for such cases. Since then James K. Polk, Zachary Taylor, James Buchanan, Abraham Lincoln, in 1860; Rutherford B. Hayes, James A. Garfield; Grover Cleveland, in 1884 and 1892; Benjamin Harrison, and Woodrow Wilson, in 1912 and 1916, were elected president without receiving a majority of the total popular vote.

But in the disputed election of 1876, Samuel J. Tilden actually received more popular votes than Hayes did, and yet Hayes was declared elected, the electoral count being finally determined as 185 to 184. Likewise in 1888 the Cleveland electors received 5,540,000 popular votes to Benjamin Harrison's 5,444,337. But Harrison was elected, 233 electoral votes to Cleveland's 168.

Bequeathed Bridal Crown for Other Happy Events

Visitors to the Lake Vattern country in central Sweden have the opportunity of seeing a fairy tale brought to life.

In the picturesque island city of Visingsö there lived 300 years ago a lovely girl, Ebba Brahe, the daughter of a nobleman, but, not of royal blood.

She was adored for many years by King Gustavus Adolphus, relates a correspondent, and they planned to marry, but affairs of state finally drove him from her, and it was necessary for him to take a bride of royal lineage. The bereft Ebba eventually married the powerful statesman and warrior, Jakob De La Gardie, and when she died she bequeathed her golden bridal crown, set with strands of rock crystal, to be worn by every young maiden of Visingsö, as she walked to the altar.

Interested visitors to the little Brahe Church may ask the sexton to unlock the heavy oak chest which stands in the sacristy, and view for themselves this lovely and touching relic, which has been worn proudly by generations of happy brides through three centuries.

Women Wore Men's Shoes

During Ohio's yesteryears the forests were so swampy that women could scarcely walk to church or to other gatherings in their pretty footwear. So instead they wore the rough heavy shoes used by the menfolk. Close to their destination they would deposit the rough shoes in a fence corner or some other near-by place and put on their dainty shoes to wear inside. Thus their Sunday footwear lasted years and years.

Montreal's Historic Crosses

Many of the historic crosses in Montreal were raised by the pioneer inhabitants to commemorate being spared from the St. Lawrence River's ravages before it finally was brought under control. Founded by the man who erected its first and most famous cross, Paul de Chomedey, le Sieur de Maisonneuve, Montreal is frequently called the "City of Crosses." Maisonneuve's cross was erected almost 300 years ago.

Players Guild to Plan Busy Season

The Kingston Players Guild are making plans for an even better season than that of last year, according to one of the officers of the organization.

Last year the Guild presented four plays that were termed successes, both financially and socially, and this year's program will call for six presentations. The selection of these plays will come from the highest type of productions that are available with the idea in mind to give the people of Kingston the best and most up-to-date entertainment possible.

The first regular meeting of the season will occur on Thursday evening, September 3, at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium, and any young folks that are interested in the project of the presentation of plays are invited to attend this meeting. The group has always been composed of young people in and about this city that have an interest in dramatics, many of them having had roles in high school plays of former years.

OFFICIAL BANNERS ARE LITTLE KNOWN

Vice President Latest to Get Personal Flag.

Washington, D. C.—If the flags of the President, vice-president and the cabinet members were paraded before you, how many would you recognize?

It was not until February 7, that the vice-president was granted an official flag, and the secretary of agriculture never has had one," says the National Geographic society.

The vice-president's personal banner is like the President's, with blue and white reversed. The President's, authorized in 1916, has a blue field charged with the presidential arms, in which the eagle's feathers are embroidered in white. One large star in each corner of these flags indicates the high rank of the possessor.

The President has had four flags. Gideon Welles, secretary of the navy, established the first of these distinguishing banners in 1865. The next year Secretary Welles authorized the flag which, except from 1870 to 1876, has been used by the secretary of the navy. It is not known who designed this flag, with its white "fouled" anchor in the center and its white stars in each of the four corners.

War Secretary's Flag
The secretary of war's flag was authorized in 1897 by order of the adjutant general's office. It is scarlet, with a white star in each corner and the coat of arms of the United States in the center.

When a separate portfolio was created for the secretary of labor in 1913, the secretary of commerce retained the old flag of the combined departments, changing only the shield. The present commerce flag is blue, with a white star in each corner. In the center is a white shield, bearing a three-masted vessel at the top and a light-house at the bottom.

The Department of Labor adopted a flag designed by its secretary, William B. Wilson. It is white, with the seal of the department in the center and a blue star in each of the four corners. It is considered the "department flag" rather than the personal banner of the secretary, and the four stars in the corners are said to represent the four bureaus within the department.

Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior, and Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic society, designed the first interior flag in 1917. The present flag is light blue, as contrasted with the "navy blue" ordinarily used in the United States flags, with the departmental seal showing a buffalo in the center. The four stars across the bottom of the flag represent the seven principal activities of the department.

It was Postmaster General Will Hays who, in 1921, proposed a flag for the Post Office department, but the actual design was suggested by Miss Alice B. Sanger, an employee. This flag has a blue field with a white star in each of its four corners. The Post Office seal, a "post horse in speed, with mail bags and rider," is shown in the center.

Changed by Order
The secretary of state was given a flag designed by the Navy department and approved by executive order in 1920. In 1933 a new executive order changed the flag slightly. It is now blue with the coat of arms of the United States in the center and a white star in each corner.

The designs of the new flags for the secretary of state, the attorney general, and the postmaster general were executed by Mr. A. E. Dubois, of the quartermaster general's office.

The attorney general's flag was designed upon suggestions made by Attorney General William D. Mitchell and a group of friends. It is blue with a white star in each corner. The center bears the arms shown on the Department of Justice seal.

The flag of the secretary of the treasury was in use in 1917 when the National Geographic magazine published its first flag number. It is believed that a fire in 1920 destroyed records which would show the name of the designer and the first use made of the flag. It is blue, with a circle of 13 white stars surrounding two fouled anchors.

Earth's "Haircut"

Produces Asbestos
Theftford Mines, Que.—Old Mother Earth gets a haircut, too, in the province of Quebec. The business of trimming the earth's hair nets Quebec province a revenue of some $5,000,000 annually. It's all part of the big asbestos mining operations in the picturesque eastern section of Quebec province. Asbestos ore resembles rock which has grown a head of silver hair, and trimming these mineral locks produces 35 per cent of the world's output of asbestos.

Moore Says His Confession Forced By New York Man

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 21 (AP)—Martin Moore admitted on the witness stand today that he signed a confession to the slaying of Helen Cleveland, in her hotel room, but said he did so after "a fat man from New York, threatened 'to beat me to death if I didn't'."

The negro was the first witness called by the defense as it sought to save him from the gas chamber on murder and first degree burglary charges.

Moore, answering questions in a clear voice, admitted he owned a heavy automatic pistol of Spanish make, which was introduced in evidence.

"Did you have that gun when Miss Cleveland was slain?" his attorney demanded.

"I did not," the negro almost shouted.

"Who had it?"
"L. D. Roddy." (Roddy is a bellhop in the hotel where Miss Cleveland was slain, and is detained as a material witness.)

Moore testified he got the gun back from Roddy the day after the slaying and noticed there were some stains on it.

He said he then hid the weapon because he was "scared."

Telling of his arrest, the negro said the officers took him to the courthouse and "whipped me a while with a hose."

"Who did?"

"That New York man, a fat man." (Detectives Martin and Quinn of New York were called in the investigation.)

As Moore testified, the three Cleveland brothers, W. L., C. B., and J. F., sat in chairs behind Solicitor Zeb V. Nettles, watching the negro closely. J. F. Cleveland, who resides at Great Kills, Staten Island, N. Y., was Helen's father.

Moore said he was at a dance the night of the slaying.

Pays Fine of $25 For Cutting Out

The driver of a 40-foot truck and trailer, who cut out of line and passed a brewery truck near the brow of a hill about two miles out of Highland Thursday afternoon, with traffic heavy at the time, paid a fine of $25 for reckless driving when arraigned before Justice Walter Seaman.

The arrest was made by Sergeant Lockhart and Trooper Baker, who state that they had to chase the offending truck for six miles before catching up with it and claim that it was being driven at a high rate of speed. The truck was headed north at the time it cut out of line and caused cars going south to pull over so far they were in danger of going off the road.

Pledged Crown Jewels

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—A story that the Count of Covadonga, former Spanish crown prince, pledged part of the Spanish crown jewels as security for a loan was a matter of court record today. Vera Cruz, Mexico, Aug. 21 (AP)—Two trains carrying arms and other war materials, reported to be destined for the Spanish government, arrived today from Mexico city. The first train was made up of 19 cars and the second 20 cars. The trains were taken to the Inter-oceanic terminal from where they were to be taken to a dock and their cargoes loaded aboard the Spanish steamer Magallanes. The steamer was expected to sail as soon as the arms were on board.

A wisecracker maintains that when a politician makes up his bed he should lie in it. Unfortunately he seems more inclined to make up his bunk and lie out of it.

The little man had applied for a deed of separation from his wife on the grounds of cruelty. Asked to prove his case, he replied: "One night I dreamed I had won $100,000, and in the morning my wife nearly killed me for not putting it in the bank before I woke up."

Husband—I've insured my life for $15,000, so that if anything happens to me you will be provided for.
Wife—How nice and thoughtful. Now you won't have to see a doctor every time you feel sick, will you?

When a fellow is referred to as "the most promising man in town" it does not always mean he is likely to succeed. He may be in debt.

Fond Wife—Who was that Sylvia you were talking about all night in your sleep?

Convincing Husband—Sylvia? Sylvia? Oh, that was just a horse I laid a bet on yesterday, my dear.

Irate Wife (hours later)—That horse you bet on yesterday tried twice to get you on the phone, today.

Two aristocratic looking gentlemen were discussing their family affairs one day. One was worried about the conduct of his son, saying: "First—I don't know what to do with him. He went out with a girl about a month ago and caught trench mouth from her."

Second—That's nothing. Likely to happen to any young man today. First—But it is something. He gave it to our hired girl—and then I got it from her and gave it to my wife.

Second—Say! You'd better do something about him right away. Good Lord, maybe I've got it right now!

A Fair Question.
If there's so much good in the worst of us.

Smith—Rather! Why, I walk three miles every day to see it!

Still another thing this country needs, in the light of recent developments is bigger and better taxpayers.

POLITICS at Random

By BYRON PRICE
Chief Of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington

BY AND large, year in and year out, there is no more touchy issue in politics than the issue of taxation.

Not only is the pocketbook nerve among the most tender, but talk about taxes always intertwines itself with the general business situation. Heavy taxes strike at the top of the industrial structure by curtailing the net profits of the big corporations, and at the bottom by restricting the spending of the average citizen.

In the current period of depression or of recovery (take your choice), these considerations are bound to apply with special force. The evidence that they do is furnished by the alacrity with which the Republicans raised the cry of "politics" after the Roosevelt tax conference.

Republican Chairman Hamilton greeted this event with a big laugh, but others in his party were both fervent and caustic in their protests. The general Republican reaction quickly established an expectation that Governor Landon would have something to say, in an early campaign speech, about the fiscal situation of the federal government.

Setting Lends Importance
THE principal public development emanating from the White House tax confab was a statement by Sec-

He was given the Morgenthau statement.

'Speculation Is Rife'
NOW there may have been valid reasons why so much was made of this event. If so, the White House preferred to leave those reasons to the imagination, for it made no comment.

Republican speculation went a long way. It played with the word "necessary," on which so much seemed to hinge. Did Mr. Morgenthau mean the budget could be balanced without new taxes, or did he merely mean increases would be unwise now in spite of the deficit?

Was the White House meeting wholly divorced from politics, and was it a fully legitimate action on the part of a responsible administration to reassess business at a time of economic upturn?

Probably the answer to this last question does not matter greatly, as far as the practical consequences are concerned. In a campaign year it is to be expected that political interpretations will be applied to the acts of the candidates, however pure they may be.

It is safe to say at least that what happened at the White House has greatly aroused the interest of the public in the tax issue, and that much more will be heard of that issue from now on.

1 Duce, Seeking More Power, Takes Tip From Washington

By ANDRUE HERDING

Rome, (AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini has become another George Washington in his determination to stay out of entangling alliances.

With conditions seemingly perfect for an alliance with Germany, he says to Hitler, in effect, "We can collaborate without incorporating."

With England and France pleading for his return to the Stresa anti-German front, he refuses to attend their preliminary Locarno conference.

He intends to be more than "a little bit independent."

Seeks Balance Of Power.

Late summer, according to a high Fascist official, will see a definite flowering of Mussolini's policy, with the following cornerstones:

1—No alliance with the German group or the Anglo-French group. On the contrary, an "independent Italian" policy which may be described as the holding of a continental balance of power as between France and Germany similar to that held by England for so many generations in the whole of Europe.

2—A peace plan consisting largely of the revival of his four-power pact—England, France, Germany, Italy. The pact died aborning in 1933, but diplomatic surgery has been known to resurrect many dead agreements.

One or two other countries, Poland or Poland and Russia, are to be added. Mussolini would prefer to exclude Russia, but the Franco-Soviet pact may prove an obstacle.

3—Attendance at the five-power Locarno conference (England, France, Belgium, Italy and Belgium) to be called probably in September. He will have worked out his idea for the new big-powers pact by that time so as to capture the lead with it.

4—Reform of the League of Nations by removing its compulsory features and making the big powers linked by his own pact: its ruling body.

Meantime some uncertainties must be cleared up for Mussolini.

Wants Mediterranean Pact.

One is the attitude of England in the Mediterranean. If Duce wants England to give up its mutual security pacts in that sea and enter with Italy into a pact mutually guaranteeing its freedom.

Another is the Socialist government in France. If Duce must wait to see how Premier Blum's left ideas will change French foreign policies.

Yet another is the working out of the recent Austro-German treaty. He must also know whether Germany and Italy can collaborate in the Balkans.

G. R. KINNEY TO OPEN

NEW SHOE STORE HERE

Another worthy addition to the many fine mercantile institutions in the city will be opened tomorrow at 9 a. m. by the G. R. Kinney Co., nationally famous shoe manufacturers.

The new store is completely modern in every respect and will not be exceeded in facilities and up-to-date equipment by any other store that we know of in the shoe field.

The G. R. Kinney Co. is one of the oldest shoe manufacturers in America, making a complete line of family shoes, and have over 300 stores scattered throughout the country, with a tremendous daily output, placing them in the front rank of shoe manufacturers. For years, G. R. Kinney Co., through their enormous purchasing facilities, and because of their large resources, offer their merchandise at surprisingly low figures and at the same time offer their patrons the best possible shoes for the money.

Their output ranges from fine, smart footwear for women to working shoes for men—as well as shoes for dress and street wear. Probably their best known shoe in the children's field is the famous Educator Shoe.

Nazis Find Tough Match In Irish Head Of Danzig

Free City of Danzig (AP)—Danzig Nazis, who sometimes take to throwing mud from the streets as well as from the platform, have picked on a tough opponent in Sean Lester, the colorful, slim little Irishman who is the servant of the League of Nations in the Free City.

SEAN LESTER

As league high commissioner, he is continually calling the dictatorial Nazi government to order for overstepping the city's democratic constitution. It is Lester who two or three times a year hales the Nazis before the Geneva bar so that the League council can administer scoldings.

Settled Irish Disputes

Therefore, he is the Nazi "Black Beast." But as a former Sinn Féin leader he had won his "various letters" in political fighting long before the Nazis picked on him—even to the extent of throwing mud at his automobile. For Jack, as he is known in Belfast where he was born on September 27, 1889, into a grocer's family, has been threatened with death, bombed and jailed in Irish struggles and is still very much alive in spite of it. Hence mud thrown at his automobile in Danzig is child's play to him.

Modest and quiet for a man who has lived a turbulent life, Lester sits behind the rather thick walls of the commodious house in the center of Danzig, where high commissioners live, and lets the epithets come. When the League, on British and French proposals, sought to send him here in 1934, Poland objected. Then Lester promptly said he wouldn't have the job. The Polish relented and Lester accepted.

Immediately before coming here, he was the Free State's permanent envoy in Geneva and had a big hand in settling many ticklish disputes which were laid on Geneva's door step.

Met Danger As Editor

He joined the Free State department of external affairs in 1922. He had been a journalist and it was as such that his life was frequently endangered. As news editor of the "Freeman's Journal" in Dublin, he was in the thick of the Sinn Féin fight. From this post he became chief propagandist for the Sinn Féin party. He was known as one of Dublin's most resourceful editors. His office was bombed, burned and raided and his paper suppressed.

During the Black and Tan campaign his colleagues on the "Freeman's Journal" were clapped into jail.

but Lester took off his coat and brought out the paper alone. All members of the staff at one time or another received death threats for their support of the Free State provisional government. Lester's imprisonment was spent in an English jail. His term of office in Danzig runs till 1937. He may then be reappointed by the League council. He is married and has three daughters.

Over 200 Gather At Big Campfire

Over 200 gathered Wednesday night at the Campfire at High Rock at Hasbrouck Park to enjoy the hour's program that had been arranged. Fred L. Van Deusen, local magician and Samuel D. Scudder, Jr., with his accordion both made a great hit with the boys of the park and their friends who showed their enjoyment by loud and prolonged applause. Songs, stunts and the ever-favorite "knock-knock" game were also enjoyed.

As a surprise feature of the evening's program, a short talk was given by Stuart Parks, supervisor of the Kingston playgrounds, who commended the park's directors and urged the boys to take full advantage of the program being run there. It was also announced at the campfire that the program for the remaining two and a half weeks was fully arranged and a busy time was planned for all who desired to take part. Friday there is to be a kite tournament with the boys and girls of Hasbrouck competing with those from the other parks with home-made kites. Next week on Wednesday, a sports carnival will be staged with competition for all in the many varieties of games and field events at the park. Thursday night will see another campfire lighted at High Rock with "amateur night" program in which the winner will be one of the representatives of the park at the big exhibition at the Municipal Auditorium on September 2. A "pop" meeting will also be held to lend encouragement to the many who will participate in the track and field day on Friday.

Progress is still being made in the handicraft program of the park, and an exhibition will be held shortly of all of the articles made. Plaster, paper, clay modeling, woodcraft, leathercraft, basketry, paper work, etc., are among the crafts being taught there.

"Mayor" Walter Taterzewski announces there is still plenty of room for more boys and girls living in that vicinity to come to the park, and enjoy the fine times they have there.

Urges Attention To Dairy Heifers

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 22—"Keep dairy heifers growing," is the recommendation of Professor K. L. Turk of the department of animal husbandry at Cornell University to dairymen in the state.

"Present conditions should be met now. Do not wait until next winter and then try to make up for a lack of feed. Regardless of how well bred the heifers are, they must be kept growing to reach full size and to produce to their utmost when they become cows."

"In sections of the state with dry pastures, heifers should receive supplemental feeds. Some hay can be provided in the pasture field. Hay of good quality should be used, but even poor hay is better than nothing. Some dairymen take a wagon load of hay into the pasture lot and allow the cows and heifers to eat from the wagon."

"If silage is available, some can be used along with the hay. In many instances, grain is necessary. Two or three pounds a day of a good fitting ration should be satisfactory."

Professor Turk says an increase now of 100 pounds in the weight of dairy heifers, with greater feeding capacity, means 1,000 more pounds of milk later when they become cows. These figures are borne out by records of dairy herd improvement associations in New York. The records also show that the cow with the greatest capacity for feed is both the largest and the most economical producer of milk. Experiments also show that young animals gain weight on considerably less feed than older animals.

Turks in Feud Take 15 Lives

Istanbul, Turkey (AP)—A bloody vendetta, arising over a land dispute, has already taken a toll of 15 lives, including seven children, at the village of Aksum in Kurdistan.

A peasant and his nephew carried out the wholesale slaughter before they themselves were hunted down and killed by enraged villagers. Six victims, including three children, fell in the first attack during a night of wedding festivities.

On the funeral day, the murderers returned to shoot two more villagers and a child, and again they escaped. The next day they reappeared, wiping out a whole family.

Fears that the feud may spread, plunging the whole area into bitter internecine strife, have led many of the more peaceful villagers to leave Aksum.

JAPANESE MAY TRY TO CLIMB MOUNT EVEREST

Calcutta, India (AP)—A new assault on the unconquered heights of Mt. Everest, recently the scene of still another British failure to scale the 29,000-foot peak, may be launched by a Japanese expedition which has reached here.

The 24-year-old leader of the Japanese party, Kakuo Yamagata, said that the first goal will be the Nanda Kot peaks in the Himalayas. "If we are successful," he added, "an attempt will be made to lead the expedition to the higher peaks of the Himalayas, including Mt. Everest. Most of the members of the Japanese party are graduates of Rikkyo University, at Tokyo."

They're Still Searching

Cologne, Germany (AP)—Attempts by the "Grand Council of the Federal Guild of Butchers and Sausage Makers" to unify the names of sausages throughout the Reich, proved a failure. So a "Fresskopf" will remain a "Fresskopf" throughout southern Germany but the Berliners will continue to call it "Friszwurst."

Divine Sails Off, Followers Happy

Trot and Reardon called there in quiet of the flag. Sister P. Angel told them she handed it to a man on the boat and that he put it away. "I don't know who the man was," was her answer to a question by Patrolman Reardon.

Police Go to Steamer.

The police went to the steamer, accompanied by one of Father Divine's men, and searched it. But the flag was not to be found there. The officers went back to the city hall, however, with an assurance from Father Divine himself that they could have the flag as soon as it was recovered.

"You shall have the flag," said the father. "We want peace, and I'm trying to give the world peace even though it doesn't want it."

An hour or so before sailing time, two Divinites called at police headquarters with the flag and turned it over to Acting Sergeant Frank Faum. They left without leaving their names. "Names mean nothing to us," said one follower from California, who hiked all the way to the pilgrimage. His journey consumed months, it was said, and he did not accept a ride all the way. He was a husky white man with long blond hair and a beard.

What Will Follow

That Father Divine intends to establish as many of his followers on the farms he has bought in Ulster county was the statement made yesterday at the former Sweeney property on Chapel street in Wilbur, by Nat N. Kranzler, a white man, who is one of the legal advisors of the Harlem religious leader, whom his followers hail as "God."

"If there can be found work for 5,000 then that number will be located on the farms here," said the official spokesman. He also made the claim that by November between 1,500 and 2,000 followers will be installed on the various "Heavens" throughout Ulster county. He stated that Father Divine had already purchased 14 farms in the county, and that there were about 800 of his followers located on the farms at the present time.

Party Abolitions Open

Asked as to the purpose of the demonstration staged here Thursday the official spokesman said that there were three. The first was to furnish a holiday for the followers; the second so that a group of the followers could be distributed to the various farms, and third and primarily that it was intended as a political demonstration for Ulster county to show the cooperation of the followers with the leader. He said that the followers would vote as Father Divine desired, and when asked with what political organization they would throw their voting strength he said with the one that "first adopted Father Divine's religious government development."

Actual Count of Heads

The actual number aboard the City of Keansburg as it docked in the Rondout creek yesterday was 1,877, and the official spokesman claimed that of that number some 500 would remain and be distributed to the various farms in the county owned by Father Divine.

"Of course," he said, "you understand that Father Divine does not own the farms but some of his followers do."

Mr. Kranzler said that those who made the trip on the boat were taxed

$1 for the round trip, and that at the Wilbur Mansion they were being fed chicken dinners at 15 cents a head.

Paid For Services

The official spokesman also made it plain that those who worked on their services, but he did not mention the scale of wages paid. "They are all happy," he said with a smile. And judging from the appearance of the "Angels" that statement was true for as they wandered about the spacious grounds of the Wilbur Heaven they murmured to themselves "It is wonderful. I thank you."

It was a weary throng of paraders that entered the grounds of the Wilbur Mansion at the close of their three mile tramp, and many hastily removed their shoes to "rest their tired dogs" and some promptly fell asleep.

Father Divine as he alighted from his Rolls-Royce of ancient vintage, promptly entered the Mansion, and retired to his room. He was a symphony in grey, wearing a grey business suit with fedora hat to match, and a grey necktie. His wife, Mother Divine, is a large heavily built woman, while he is short and stocky.

It was an orderly crowd that set out to enjoy themselves in the Mansion and on the grounds. The old Sweeney property has been remodeled and repaired and painted the usual yellow and green, which appears to be the Father's favorite color scheme.

In the large dining room the huge horseshoe dining table was laid with the finest of silver, with snowy white linen and the table was large enough to seat at least 20 people. At the head of the table were two large chairs, known as master chairs, and evidently intended for the Father and his wife when they were ready to partake of the repast to be served later.

A large building in the rear of the Mansion had been turned into a restaurant and here those who desired could purchase chicken dinners for 15 cents each, and the restaurant was jammed with both blacks and whites.

Will Secure an Airport

Mr. Kranzler, the official spokesman, was also questioned as to whether Father Divine intended to purchase the Kingston flying field, just across the Washington avenue viaduct, but he made it plain that that deal was off. He said that the development within 28 miles of Kingston and advised members of the press to keep their eyes open for the development to be announced. He said that the Father wanted a flying field that was not only of sufficient size, but also well drained. Father Divine is already the owner, or rather his followers are, of two airplanes and both circled the city during the progress of the parade. One was in charge of one of the followers known as Flying Nellie. It was thought at first that Father Divine was in one of the airplanes circling high over his parade, but it developed later that the Father preferred riding in his car at the head of the procession. Ulster county has been selected as the site, aside from Harlem, to be the stage for the development of the religious government program of Father Divine, according to Mr. Kranzler. Just why Ulster county was selected he said he did not know. He also did not know the reason why Father Divine had established his first "Heaven" just outside of New Paltz.

As one of the cultists remarked later "The Father moves in a mysterious way his wonders to perform."

According to the official spokesman for Father Divine the Father has acquired some other properties in Ulster county which have not been announced. Where they were located he did not say, but intimated they were mostly farms.

In the Pool—Clothes and All

During the afternoon at the Wilbur Heaven two movie cameras installed on automobiles made a number of pictures of the Angels as they strolled about the grounds. Father Divine has had a large swimming pool renovated in front of the Mansion and several of the female Angels plunged in without troubling to remove their clothes much to the enjoyment of the cameramen who cranked industriously while they urged others in the group to set a similar example by jumping into the pool.

Father Divine when seen at the Mansion and asked for a statement said that he did not care to talk for the press. He said he was not interested in newspapers or what they had to say.

Thousands Attracted

The advent of Father Divine and his followers drew thousands of spectators who not only lined the sidewalks along the line of march during the afternoon, but drew hundreds of cars filled with sightseers to the Wilbur Heaven. Chapel street is a very narrow street and there is hardly room for two cars to pass. For that reason cars were allowed to proceed out of the street but no car was allowed to enter from Wilbur avenue. Auto drivers who were acquainted with the streets in the Wilbur section of the city drove up to South Wall street and from South

Wall street turned into Brook street, which wound around behind the Wilbur Heaven and intersected Chapel street. By traveling this way interested sightseers were able to pass the Wilbur Heaven and catch a glimpse of the crowd as it disappeared itself on the spacious grounds.

Owing to the narrowness of the street it was impossible to park and the steady stream of cars was forced to proceed slowly past the Father's Mansion and down into Wilbur avenue.

To the police in charge of traffic duty on Chapel street and Wilbur avenue and those on duty in the downtown business section it appeared as if every automobile in the city and Ulster county passed and repassed.

Even in the heartiest days of traffic

during the summer the number of automobiles that passed through Wilbur avenue was not as heavy as that of yesterday afternoon and evening.

The disciples, who arrived on board boat long before the steamboats pulled out on the homeward journey, did not appear to mind the long wait. The boat was brilliantly lighted with electric lights and presented a gay scene with the passengers passing from one deck to another. As the mixed orchestra broke into the strains of the Father Divine song, many of the followers began to dance.

As they danced hundreds of others clapped their hands in time to the music.

BOACH STARTS ROW BETWEEN MANILANS.

Manila, P. I. (A.P.)—Street lights and trams have held the undivided attention of the Manila municipal board for some weeks as a bitter controversy rages between Mayor Juan Posadas and Councilor Vicente Alindaga.

It all started when a citizen found a roach in a bottle of beverage put up by a Chinese firm. Alindaga, as a special policeman, was alleged to have failed to prosecute the case. He won the argument.

The councilor now charges that the mayor, seeking revenge because of his roach case victory, has had the street lights removed from the vicinity of his residence. This the mayor denies, and meanwhile Manila newspapers continue to headline the "roach-street light" battle.

Youngest "Co-Eds" Have Birthday

thaca, N. Y., Aug. 21 (AP)—Mary and Rose Ann, Cornell's youngest "co-eds", observed their birthday today with an extra ration of orange juice, a sun bath and their customary morning nap.

The twins were born four months ago today.

Turned over to the College of Economics by their father after their mother died, the twins were adopted to provide practical study for students.

They probably will be moved from the child nutrition apartment of the college to the home-making apartment next October when home economics students will take charge of their care.

Then they will be "practice housewives". They are "going to college" for a year and will be given periodical physical and psychological examinations and subjected to research in the energy metabolism of infants.

Mary Alice weighs 12 pounds 12 and a half ounces and Rose Ann 12 pounds three ounces. College "mothers" declare that Mary Alice has the edge physically and Rose Ann mentally.

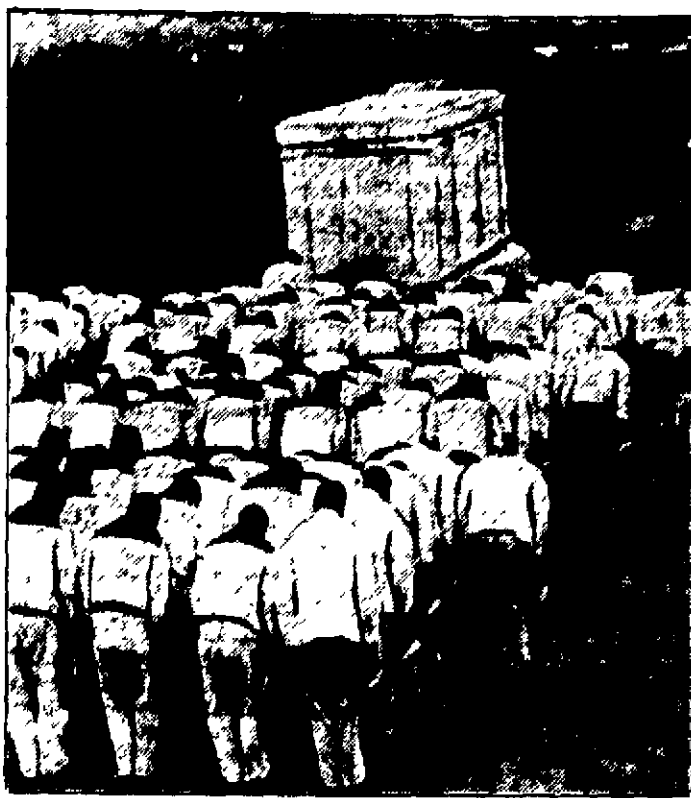

Both have coats of tan received from spending an aggregate of two hours in the sun. College authorities said the twins are normal babies and very rarely cry.

Their "mothers" for the present are Miss Frances Spano, of Cortland, N. Y., and Miss Louis Purdy, of Theresa, N. Y.

"The Sick Man of Europe"

The phrase, "the sick man of Europe" probably had a journalistic origin, now lost. Montesquieu (1689-1755) in one of his "Persian Letters," speaks of the Ottoman Empire "whose sick body was not supported by a mild and regular diet, but by a powerful treatment, which continually exhausted it." The expression is also sometimes credited to Czar Nicholas I of Russia, in a conversation concerning Turkey held with a British diplomat in 1853: "We have on our hands a sick man, a very sick man."

Candidate Chosen, Arabians Nights Give Bizarre Touch To Moscow Trial

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—With the campaign for governor occupying an important position in the election in New York state, the Democrats appeared today to have gained a head start in that their candidate already is chosen.

Gov. Herbert H. Lehman is seeking re-election on the Democratic ticket, while the Republican leaders have not yet agreed on an opponent.

The eastern division managers of Gov. Alf M. Landon's campaign publicly have expressed a "hands off" policy in the state situation, but privately they do not conceal their hope for a quick achievement of harmony. The Kansas governor probably will canvass the governorship contest in his forthcoming visit to New York state.

The central figure in the Republican controversy is the Onondaga county leader, Clarence R. King, of Syracuse.

King has aroused the ire of New York city leaders, who previously had expressed a willingness to unite behind an upstate candidate to oppose Lehman. The ire results from King's failure to declare his personal choice between the two Syracuse aspirants for the nomination, Mayor Roland B. Marvin and State Senator George R. Fearon.

Inasmuch as the state convention is not until September 28, allowing only six weeks for the actual campaign after the nominee is named, the leaders believe a pre-convention "build-up" of a favorite is necessary.

In Opposition.

Opposed to Fearon and Mayor Marvin is the candidacy of Supreme Justice William F. Bleakley of Westchester county. Unless the Onondaga county leader comes to an early decision where he will throw the support of his organization, some of the metropolitan leaders are prepared to abandon the idea of an upstate candidate to oppose Lehman.

The Landon managers feel a protracted controversy over the governorship may become a threat to Landon's chances to carry New York with its 47 electoral votes.

The Democratic state convention, also on September 28, at Syracuse, will serve principally for the formal renomination of Governor Lehman and will be a rally for President Roosevelt by the leaders of his home state.

The campaign in New York also finds, for the first time, organized labor in the field with a political party.

The state committee on labor's non-partisan league—which includes such pro-Roosevelt union leaders as Mayor George L. Berry, John L. Lewis, Sidney Hillman and David Dubinsky—organized the American Labor party to support the candidacies of President Roosevelt and Governor Lehman on an independent basis.

The Labor party ballot will include the same list of presidential electors as the Democratic, with the Labor leaders well represented on the state committee this week.

Some of these labor leaders look upon the Labor party in New York as the forerunner of a national Labor party in 1940, organized along lines of the Labor party in England.

At Lowest Ebb

This campaign finds the once-powerful Tammany Hall at perhaps the lowest political ebb in many years.

While Tammany Hall is a Manhattan institution, it has controlled political affairs in the other boroughs of New York city in the past through its alliances.

Since the 1932 campaign, when Tammany joined Alfred E. Smith in opposing Roosevelt at the Chicago convention, Democratic Chairman James A. Farley has steadily built up an independent leadership in other boroughs, and to these leaders has gone the bulk of the New York city patronage from the federal government.

Both Farley and Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., the eastern division manager of the Landon campaign, claim New York state. When the political lines are broken down, in private conversations, the Democratic command expects a substantial large majority in New York state to overcome the Republican upstate. The Republicans expect just as great a majority upstate to overcome New York city.

China Wai Lee, Chinese music actor, is credited with having organized the first Chinese big band around.

Moscow, Aug. 21—The story of how a copy of the Arabian Nights was used as a secret code between Russia's amazing anti-Stalin conspirators gave a fantastic touch today to the trial of 16 confessed plotters.

A bewildered, discomfited prisoner, E. Holzmann, solemnly recounted how he acted as liaison man between T. Smirnov, head of the Moscow Trotskyites and Syedoff, Leon Trotsky's son in Berlin, with a copy of the book the most important piece of baggage.

"Smirnov gave me a copy of the Arabian Nights," the witness related, "which, in some way which I do not remember, served as a secret code."

"Upon meeting Syedoff in Berlin I handed him Smirnov's report on economic and political affairs of the U. S. S. R. and the Arabian Nights code."

Leon Trotsky, the celebrated exile, has been accused by both the government and the defendants as the master of the plot, embracing not only but many attempts upon the life of Dictator Joseph Stalin.

Holzmann told of a meeting with Trotsky in Copenhagen at which he quoted the exile as saying:

"The only way to remove Stalin is through terror."

Karl Radek, Communist commentator named in testimony as one who aided the efforts to overthrow the government, today denounced the conspirators and demanded their execution.

Writing in the authoritative Izvestia, Radek asserted the "proletarian court will announce a verdict for the gang of bloody murderers, a verdict which they deserve a hundred times."

Comets Are Bulkiest and Lightest of Sun's Family

Comets are the bulkiest and lightest members of the sun's family of satellites and seemingly the most erratic. The more that is learned about them, however, the less erratic they appear. They have been considered mysterious objects by all peoples since the earliest times and have been observed with awesome fear, assert a writer in the New York Herald Tribune.

Comets have lost their status as bearers of dire forebodings of catastrophes among the educated classes, but they still retain a mystical significance for all classes that is easily understood by any one who has seen their flaming tails spread across the heavens. They are fascinating objects even to the astronomers who have found them useful in unraveling some of the mysteries of the heavens. They find in them many mysteries awaiting solution.

The head of a comet has a peculiar structure. It is not a solid body like the planets, but is an aggregation of very small bodies. It is a clump of meteors with a total diameter between 150 and 750 miles. What holds these masses together is a good deal of a mystery. The gravitational attraction which the particles exert on each other seems to be very inadequate and a more powerful cohesive force is required.

Tails that stream out behind the comet as they approach the sun and usually point away from the sun supply another mystery. The explanation that has sufficed in the past is that gases in the metal particles in the head of the comet are forced out by the increasing heat and that the pressure of light forces these gases away from the sun. Some tails are almost at right angles to the line joining the comet and the sun instead of falling directly on this line.

Habits of Flying Moth

The adult flying moth is a menace in the propagation of the species. It is true that the adult clothes moth apparently takes no nourishment. The females begin laying before they are fully one day old and neither sex lives longer than a month in the adult stage. In fact, the individuals are more likely to die between the seventh and fourteenth days after emergence. It is the larvae only which do the damage.

How Many White Children Were Indianized and Lost

During years of captivity with the Ohio Indians, many white children would become so Indianized that they could not be identified by parents or acquaintances when the youngsters would be brought back to their former localities.

On his expedition into Ohio in 1764 Col. Bouquet rescued from captivity many children of white parents in Pennsylvania. Unable to tell their own names or when they were taken captive, the children were unknown and unclaimed.

At Carlisle, Pa., a public meeting was held for the purpose of exhibiting the children in the hope that parents, gathering there from other sections of the state, could identify the former captives.

One of the parents, relates a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, who came to the meeting was a gray-haired mother whose two daughters, Regina and Barbara, had been stolen years before. The mother studied each child closely in the hope of recognizing one of her daughters, but in vain.

At last, her eyes filled with tears at the thought that she would never see her children again, a friend suggested that she sing a lullaby she had sung to the girls when they were babes in her arms.

She thought a moment and then started to sing softly a tune she had sung to her two girls. After a moment one of the former captives, a girl, bent forward and listened intently, and after another moment she sprang into her mother's arms.

This was Regina, Barbara was never found.

Species of Arborvitae

There are five species of true arborvitae, known to the botanist as thuja, but more generally spelled thuya, notes a writer in the Los Angeles Times. This is an ancient Greek name given to some resinous tree or shrub and its meaning is not understood. One of the best known species is Thuja occidentalis, erroneously called white cedar in some Eastern states where it is native. It is found in Canada, and south to North Carolina on the Eastern Coast and to Illinois in the Mississippi Valley. The normal type attains a height of sixty feet, with a slender pyramidal growth and straight central shaft which makes the tree a favorite with lumbermen seeking telegraph or telephone poles. Like the oriental species, Thuja orientalis, the American Thuja occidentalis has many segregated and named forms, at least fifty. Some of these are very dwarf, with two distinct kinds of foliage.

MATCHED HOMES SOLVE CHINA'S HOUSING PROBLEM

Nanking, China (AP)—Best ever so humble, there's nothing like a good clean match for a home. This, at any rate, is what Nanking's city fathers believe, for with 150,000, or one-seventh of the capital's population too poor to buy, build or even rent more substantial structures, matchmakers at approximately 48 per shed are called the solution for the Chinese metropolis' increasingly acute housing problem.

Some 37,000 families now existing in filthy hovels which provide little shelter for anything but disease germs are to be moved to specially designated matched areas outside the capital's ancient city walls.

Dueling Dummy Survives to Keep Alive Tradition

An iron man which failed to serve its purpose and has survived to keep alive a tradition may be seen at Camden, S. C., relates a writer in the Washington Star.

The iron man serves also to take some of the romantic glamor out of dueling.

Fiction writers are prone to picture dueling in an exalted light with mere risking their lives to satisfy some breach of honor and the code of dueling was the code of a gentleman.

The iron man, behind his changeless expression, knows otherwise.

It seems that a colonel and a major came to the parting of the ways and in parting, only a duel could leave honor satisfied. The colonel was about six feet tall, his antagonist about five foot six. The duel was to be fought with revolvers, in the use of which both were highly proficient.

However, the colonel decided to have a bit of practice and secured an iron casting of a man about the size of the major and he held daily target practice, attaining great accuracy in his marksmanship.

Came the morning of the duel and the colonel, attired in green silk took his place with green foliage behind him to confuse the major's aim. That gave the colonel an advantage, but the major was undisturbed. Both men fired and neither hit his foe.

"Are you satisfied?" inquired the colonel.

"I'm disgusted," replied the major angered at his poor marksmanship. The duel occurred in 1845.

People, Birds, Animals

Feel Approaching Storm

There are many people who can feel when a thunderstorm is coming. They are upset, even physically ill, when it breaks.

They know, too, something else that science cannot explain—that birds and animals are warned by some mysterious instinct when thunder is at hand. Their behavior shows it, relates a writer in Pearson's Weekly.

Does atmospheric electricity act on our nervous system or on the tiny electric charges that make up the atoms of which our bodies are composed? Presumably it is the extra electricity in the air that turns milk sour or meat bad, during a thunderstorm. Perhaps human beings are also "turned sour" by it!

Many phases of the weather influence our systems though we do not yet know how and why. Some people are affected by the east wind more than others. The east wind—there's another evil monster of mythology—makes some people positively ill.

Strange Beliefs

Although most people do not realize it, there are more than 200 religions in Britain. Some of them bear unusual names—Holy Rollers, Shakers, Four Square Gossellers, Glasites, Anthroposophites, and Mazdaznans. Many of them are offshoots of some form of Christianity, says Tit-Bits Magazine, though some are so extraordinary as to be divorced from all orthodox religion. In London, there is even a member of the Followers of Shaitan—the Devil—a sect from Arabia. These people believe that as God is good, there is no need to concentrate on Him. The Devil is out to try and harm them, so they insinuate themselves into his good books by much flattery, hoping that in the hereafter they will have an easy time.

Strongest Indian Confederation

There are nearly 2,000 mountains in the Adirondacks, some of them towering more than a mile in height, and the Iroquois, who possessed them, built up in their vigorous and bracing climate the strongest Indian confederation in history. Its power extended far down the East coast to the Carolinas, the group covering an area of nearly four million square acres.

The Hartford Convention

The Hartford Convention was a secret convention of prominent members of the peace party in New England, who in 1814, objected to the energetic prosecution of the war with England. The chief proposals of the convention involved such amendment of the Constitution as would diminish the control of Congress over questions of peace and war.

Nervous Balkans Maintain Close Watch As Greece Establishes A Dictatorship

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The strength that King George of Greece is prepared to show in maintaining his position may now under a dictatorship.

New York (AP)—The establishment of a dictatorship in Greece under Premier John Metaxas is causing the other Balkan countries to make an intensive check to determine whether the move possibly portends any further governmental change which might alter international relations.

This Balkan cock-pit is still, as it has been through the ages, one of the danger spots of the continent, for it takes little to stir the fierce racial and political animosities which exist in that region. It will not soon be forgotten that the World war was helped there.

Throne a Hot Seat

King George and the monarchy have had a friendly reception from neighboring states. Furthermore, no concern has been exercised thus far as to anything which Metaxas himself may do, for while he is man of great force and initiative, he always has professed himself to be a staunch monarchist and is credited with being conservative and safe. However, he is about the last of the great personalities whom death has spared to Greece, and he is sixty-five years old. Other nations are wondering what may happen to the monarchy when time compels him to throw away support.

King George's nine-months-old throne is a fairly hot seat in view of all the circumstances.

It is of more than passing interest that George assigned the dictatorship to another instead of jumping into the breach himself, as was done by the late King Alexander of Yugoslavia, and in effect by George's former brother-in-law, Carol of Rumania. Having done this, the ruler left his capital, which was under martial law, for a short holiday in Corfu.

Marie Kountouris

The beaumonted King of the Hellenes became a popular diner-out in London and other capitals during the dozen years of his exile, while his mother-in-law, the vigorous Queen Marie of Rumania, was trying to get him restored to his throne.

Queen Marie's main interest naturally lay in her desire to see her daughter, Princess Elizabeth, the first lady of Greece, Elizabeth finally divorced George on the grounds of desertion, but not until July, 1935, only four months before the Greeks invited him to resume his throne.

It was about 1925 that Queen Marie turned to a great Balkan expert for advice. She wanted to know what chance there was of George ever coming back. The expert replied:

Future a Question

"If George would get on a white charger and ride through the city of Athens to his palace, with a sword at his side, the people would fall on his neck with joy and welcome him home. But George won't do that."

The future of Greece may easily depend on how far George is prepared to go in riding a white horse with a sword at his side. At the moment Metaxas is riding the horse for him.

General John Metaxas, the world's newest "iron man," has assumed the leadership in Greece. Nations wonder what will happen when Metaxas, now 63, is gone.

John W. Grunenwald, Jr., of 20 Franklin street, was arrested yesterday on a warrant sworn out by his wife, charging him with failing to provide for the support of their three children. This morning before Judge Walter H. Gill, in police court Grunenwald waived examination and was held to await the action of the grand jury.

John Witkowski of Murray street, arrested on Ferry street yesterday when the Father Divine parade was forming, was fined $5 on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Mrs. Daisy Madain of Palenville was arrested there yesterday by State trooper Legg and taken to Catskill, where she was turned over to Officer Henry Barmann and brought to Kingston to await a hearing on a charge of petit larceny. She was arrested on complaint of Cleo A. Rousseau, who charged that she gave him a bad check for $3 for the purchase of a pair of shoes. The hearing was held open to give both parties an opportunity to get together and see if the matter could be adjusted.

Bus Situation Still Unchanged

The controversy concerning the town bus terminal location is still unchanged, with the final decision resting with the Public Service Commission.

At present most of the long distance bus lines are operating from the new North Front street terminal, and they have indicated that this present arrangement is more to their liking than was the old terminal facilities. However, several of the local lines are still calling the Crown street site their terminal and just what the outcome of the whole thing will be is not certain.

A talk with Aduchefsky, manager of the North Front street location, reveals that he has had an increase in ticket sales since moving from the old place, and he believes that the new route through the city to his place of business is much better both for traffic conditions and also for saving time.

Masks Of Criminals Help 'O-Men' In Scientific War Against Outlaws

Chief Howard G. Robinson of Ohio's bureau of criminal identification and investigation moulds in moulded the features and footprints of wanted men.

London, Ohio (P)—Aided by its "secret 21," by the largest state file of fingerprints in the United States and by masks of wanted men, Ohio's bureau of criminal identification and investigation carries on a continuous scientific battle against the underworld.

Its record of 2,000,000 criminals ranks second to the files of J. Edgar Hoover's "G-men" at the federal bureau of investigation. And although the Ohio bureau has only three "O-Men," it has an invaluable source of information of lawbreakers in the "secret 21."

Organized two years ago as the Ohio crime control commission, the "secret 21" is made up of representatives of various law enforcing agencies. But identities of the individuals never are disclosed.

Bureau Chief Howard G. Robinson, who has been in crime detection work 16 years, moreover, has developed the use of moulage in the identification work of the bureau and is regarded as an expert in its use.

Moulage is used to mould life-like figures of body features of criminals—face masks, hands and the like—and to preserve imprints, such as fingerprints and tire marks.

"Moulage," says Robinson, "offers another wall for the criminal to scale in his losing battle against law and order."

The Ohio bureau of criminal identification and investigation, established in 1923, has its offices at the state prison farm near here. Bureau Chief Robinson is assisted by E. J. Yantis and L. Hollingsworth.

RITLEY AND QUIGLEY USE CONVENTION AS REUNION

William J. Ritely, Ocean paid fireman, and George A. Quigley, 7 Cross street, Kingston, World War buddies met for the first time in 18 years at the recent convention of the State Permanent Firemen's Association here.

These two members of Company C, 24th Regiment, 45th Division, were close buddies overseas. "What-ever George had, I got half of it," Ritely told a reporter. And, when Quigley was seen he said the same thing. In the army they were inseparable, and during the convention they spent a lot of time together. Ritely's first move upon reaching Kingston was to look up his war-time pal. The reunion of their friendship was a manifestation of deep feeling as the two ex-doughboys threw their arms around one another and embraced.

After the war, Ritely joined the Ocean Fire Department and has been a public servant for 18 years. Quigley went back to the ice business, a line that the family name has been connected with for two generations.

Camp Site Wanted Near Ellenville

The Noonday Club of Ellenville has interested itself in the proposition of securing a public state camp site to be located somewhere in the vicinity of the town.

The meeting of the club featured a talk by Game Protector Lewis H. Weed who spoke on the duties of his department, particularly stressing the point that plans are actively under way by the state department to procure fishing rights on streams throughout the state that have been closed to the public by private ownership. Mr. Weed stated that already a considerable amount of stream mileage had been opened to the fishermen including land along the Beaverkill, Neversink and Delaware.

Further discussion on the question of the public camp site rounded out the meeting, with the fact brought forth that the nearest location of such a place was well over 25 miles away, and the acquisition of such a project would prove a great benefit to Ellenville.

The central-western district of the U. S. secret service in New York has been shifted from Syracuse to Buffalo.

Beer Truck and Coal Truck Collide

One of the big Ebling beer trucks, loaded, upset near the Marlborough-Milton town line about 7:45 o'clock Thursday morning, on Route 9-W, when, according to Sergeant Lockhart it attempted to pass to the right of a truck of the Johnson Coal Co., of Highland. It took about an hour and a half to unload the truck, get it righted and loaded again.

According to Sergeant Lockhart both trucks were traveling south on the three-strip concrete when the coal truck pulled into the center lane, intending to turn right and over a narrow bridge into the Perkinsville road. The driver of the beer truck, following close behind, thought that the coal truck was making a left turn and tried to pass on its right, when the other truck swung back clipping the beer truck on fender and running board and causing it to upset. No arrests were made.

Rich Meet Hedricks Tonight Second Game of City Series

Rich A. C. and the Hedricks are all set to clash in their second game of the city series at the Athletic Field. The game will start promptly at 6:15. The Riches were victorious in the first game played on Wednesday by a score of 5-3. The A. C. selected Johnny Burgevin to pitch over in tonight's game in an effort to tie up the count. Young Hedricks will oppose Burgevin in the series stands now another game for the Riches tonight would be a chance for the Riches to lead in the third game. The leading hurler, will be all set to pitch in the third game. Wednesday's game the Riches won at the last minute as Jimmy Hedricks was absent at the beginning of the game. Tonight, however, he will be in at the start and the Riches will take the field with all the stars in their right positions. The change last Wednesday night, several costly errors were committed that had a bearing on the result. Four out of seven games are being played this season to determine the city championship instead of the usual three out of five. A large crowd of fans is expected to be on hand for tonight's struggle in the second meeting of the two best teams in the City League.

A.A.A. SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Yesterday's Results
Pushing across two runs in the last inning, the Colonials scored their third victory of the season over the Apple Knockers at the Fair Grounds by the score of 7-6. Trailing 6-5 going into the seventh, Wheeler led off with a single. McElrath booted Haines' grounder, both runners tagging safe. Schlitz fanned, but Perlis Williams, pinch hitting, hit a single to center field scoring Wheeler. Warren Smith then poked a hit to left scoring Haines with the winning run. Gordon Craig twirled for the Colonials, having one bad inning when the Apple Knockers scored five times. The Colonials drove Ben Fein, starting pitcher, out in the third, and George Flemming finished.

Two home runs by "Joe" Fuller and one by Stu Parks accounted for all Triangles runs as they defeated Nick's Rascals 7-4. Parks and Vinling formed the winning battery. Hornbeck and Caprotti worked for the losers.

Blasting "Muscles" Ballo for nine hits to garner 10 runs the Chevrolet softballers scored a 10-5 victory over A. D. Rose at Roosevelt Field last night.

Behind Ken Newell's fine pitching Charlie Bock pounded out a triple and a double while Frank Brooks had a pair of singles to pace the Chevrolet hitting attack. Dave and Joe Brooks came through with two hits apiece for the Grocers.

The sensational winning streak of the League-leading Cornell-Rescue softball team was brought to an abrupt halt last night at Hasbrouck Park when Joe Bechtold's Altamari Aces defeated them 8-6. The Aces went to town in the first inning at the expense of Johnny Snyder, gathering seven hits and seven runs, one of them a homer by Joe Dulin. In the second inning Russ Maurer tripled and came home on Joe Kosloski's hit to make the score 8 to 0. Harry Rice, Ace pitcher, twirled a consistent game holding the C. & R. to seven hits. Curt Clair caught Johnny Snyder and J. Woods formed the losing battery. Tommy Maines starred for the C. & R. with a homer.

Board of Public Works vs. Fuller Shirt at Roosevelt.
Royal Arcanum vs. Canfield at Hasbrouck.

In New Role

When Bump Hadley was toiling to get in shape last spring most observers would watch his efforts, shake their heads and walk away mumbling something or other. A few spoke right up with the opinion that Manager Joe McCarthy was loading a lot of dead wood on the Yankees. How could Hadley be of any possible help to New York after Washington had given him up? they asked. He had been with the White Sox and the Browns and about the best that could be said of Bump was that he was a most willing worker.

McCarthy had other ideas. He felt certain that the veteran, if he would work hard enough to get in shape, would come in mighty handy as a relief pitcher. Most old-timers know all there is to know about pitching. McCarthy reasoned—if Hadley was in shape to get out there and use that knowledge for just two innings at a time it might mean ball games to the Yankees.

Hadley's bow in a Yankee uniform gave little promise of future usefulness. The Yankees were engaging the Athletics in a free-hitting game one April 20 when Bump was called into action. When the smoke cleared Hadley's record showed one loss and no victories. But from that time on until the middle of August Hadley did not suffer a defeat. He boasted a string of 11 consecutive victories—the best in the American League this season—on August 15.

Takes Six Full Games
Many of his victories were scored in the relief role, but that matters little for lately he has been starting as well as finishing his share of games. Half a dozen of his string were complete games. He has scored over every team on the circuit except the Browns. The Red Sox and the White Sox each have suffered three defeats at his hands.

In 1932 Hadley earned the dubious honor of losing more games than any other pitcher in the American League. Toiling for Chicago and St. Louis, he was charged with 21 defeats. And if that were not bad enough the records added insult to injury when they showed that Bump topped all other hurlers in matter of issuing passes—171 was the figure. The following year he suffered 20 defeats and again was 'the most generous hurler in the league when he gave 141 bases on balls.

Paul Dean Keeps Working
There is little likelihood that Paul Dean will return to service on the mound for the Cardinals this season. But Paul hasn't given up all hope of pitching. He takes light workouts every day. When the Cards are travelling, Paul works with the Browns.

His efforts mainly are confined to keeping in good physical condition. He shags flies in the outfield, but makes no attempt to throw until his workout in the field is over. Then he tosses for about 10 minutes to anyone who happens to be handy—just easy, straight balls. His trouble is not a new one. He had the same difficulty two seasons ago and restored his arm. He is confident that rest will do the trick again.

He goes under treatments daily for the muscular trouble, which seems to have lodged in his shoulder. He will not listen to any advice that he forget baseball for the rest of the season. Paul insists that his arm is coming around and even talks of getting in there again before the season ends.

He laughs at any suggestion that the Cardinals cannot win the pennant without him. Of course, he is certain that it would be a breeze for Frankie Frisch's Gas House Gang were he ready to step back and take his regular turn on the mound. They still have Dizzy—and that means the pennant, as he sees it.

Paul has no fear that his big brother is likely to suffer from overwork. They can't overwork old Dizzy, according to Paul. Dizzy will take them in his stride and win the pennant for St. Louis, just like that, he warns all other contenders.

Canzoneri Will Stop Ambers In Six Rounds, Says Sammy Goldman

Now that the heavyweights have had their innings, two of the best lightweight fighters in the world will settle their differences in a fifteen round bout at Madison Square Garden on the night of September 3. The two scrappy youngsters in question are none other than Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight champion of the world and his challenger Lou Ambers, the speedy kid from Herkimer, N. Y. Tony's title will be at stake and from all accounts it promises to be one of the greatest fights ever staged between members of that division. The two boys fought last year, with Canzoneri winning a hair line decision. Ambers begged another chance and the champion was ready to grant it.

Of course, Canzoneri at present is the choice with the boys who like Ambers fighter has many supporters and they are betting plenty that Lou will be returned the winner and new champion when they finish their clash at the old Garden.

All of which does not in any way affect the champion. Tony likes to be second choice in the betting when he has a big fight on. It will be remembered that Jimmy McLarnin was an odds on favorite to beat the little Italian, but see what happened to that Irishman. Sammy Goldman, manager of Canzy is of the opinion that his famous charge will stop Ambers inside of six beats.

Canzoneri is getting ready for the fray at his farm in Marlborough, N. Y., while Ambers is finishing his training stunts at Dr. Biers camp in Pompton Lakes, N. Y. Both are in good shape and the bout promises to be bitterly contested.

Dean Appears Headed Toward Best Season of His Major Career

(By The Associated Press)

Whether Dizzy Dean's "work-horse" act saves the pennant for the St. Louis gas house gang or not, it appears to be pointing the great one toward the best season of his big league career.

Old Diz is turning in those victories at the rate of two a week and at his current pace may come close to hitting the 35-mark in games won for the campaign.

His strikeouts and base-on-balls records for the season so far compare favorably with his best year, 1934, when he won 30, lost seven, fanned 95 batters and walked only 75.

His record for the current campaign is 21 won against eight lost. He has a winning streak of six straight, and he has his eye on the Giants' coming road trip, when he'll be bearing down to end the threat of Bill Terry and company on the National League lead.

Dizzy turned in a seven-hit job against the Cincinnati Reds yesterday. The Cardinals came through with a three-run splurge in the ninth for a 4-2 victory, to boost their league lead to a game and a half over the Giants, who were idle along with the Dodgers.

The Cubs fell farther behind as the Pirates punched a run over in the 11th for an 8-7 win. The Chicago champs blew a seven-run lead they piled up in the first two frames, and were unable to score after that as Ralph Birkofer pitched two-hit ball in a nine-inning relief assignment.

The crippled Boston Bees' pitching staff forced Bill McKechnie to gamble on a pair of youngsters, Bill Weir and Bobby Reis, against the Phillies, and between them they held the falling Phils to six hits for a 3-1 Boston win.

The American League's only game saw the Tigers come from way behind in a four-run handicap to trounce the Browns 8-4, with a 17-hit attack. Tommy Bridges chalked up his 17th win, holding the Brownies to eight hits.

The victory boosted the Tigers to a slim half-game back of second-place Cleveland Indians, but made no inroads on the 12-game edge the Yanks hold at the head of the pack.

(By The Associated Press)

Dizzy Dean, Cardinals—Held Reds to seven hits for 21st win. Arky Vaughan and Ralph Birkofer, Pirates—Former singled to Ott. Giants.

DiMaggio, Yankees—Drove in 11th inning; Birkofer allowed two hits in nine-inning relief pitching job. Irv Burns, Tigers—Had double and single, driving in two runs against Browns.

Tony Cuccinello, Bees—His triple and two singles led way to 3-1 win over Phillies.

Wins First Prize

Lake Placid, N. Y., Aug. 21 (AP)—Clarence Clark of Bloomfield, N. J., former New Jersey open champion, won first prize money in the $3,000 Lake Placid Open golf tournament with a sub-par 69 in the home stretch which gave him a 72 hole total of 285, three under par. One stroke back was Ted Turner of Pine Valley, N. J., who after leading Clark at the three-quarter mark, caught a trap on the final hole for a 286 total. The tournament ended late yesterday.

Huge Fish Caught

Half Island Cove, N. S., Aug. 21 (AP)—A 22-foot fish, believed to be the "monster sea serpent" reported off the Nova Scotia coast several times this month, was the prize of fishermen here today. Caught in a trap yesterday, the fish was towed in by R. Hendsbee, who estimated it weighed more than four tons. The liver alone weighed about half a ton. A veteran seaman said the fish looked like the basking sharks he had seen in foreign waters. It had white flesh and a large mouth, but no teeth.

In recent years, China has promoted growth of millions of trees in an effort to control flood waters.

Soon the grand chorus will start —"F-O-U-R Y-E-A-R-S A-G-O—"

Weekly Boxing Card At Woodcliff Park

Poughkeepsie, Aug. 21—Two of the best fights yet presented on the American Legion cards at Woodcliff Park here will be put on tonight with Norm Rubio of the Anacram CCC camp meeting Jackie Filkins of West Point in one five rounder, and Johnny Calnes of West Point, the sensational colored middleweight, boxing Bill Guskul, who beat Joe Furlin for the valley title in that class three weeks ago.

Calnes put Harry Porter of Millbrook away in his first bout and showed such a good straight left and right cross that boxing critics dubbed him as a corner in local ring circles. Guskul, a tall blond dynamo, has an admirable record and on form is the better of the two, but only by a slight margin.

Filkins has been after a Rubio bout for some time. Beaten in an earlier fight he is sure that he is in camp boxer. Filkins claims that he made a mistake in trying to box out slugging.

There are also eight three rounders on the card which will start promptly at 8:30.

St. Remy Will Play Stantons Sunday

The St. Remy A. C. will play the Stanton Brewers on Sunday afternoon on the St. Remy diamond. Games time is 2:30 o'clock. St. Remy already holds one victory over the Brewers, scored earlier in the season. Leo Komosa of the A. C., and Jack Dodge of the Brewers, will be the probable mound selections.

Variety of Flavors

A classification of many of the eucalyptus trees reads like a catalog of flavoring extracts for cake-making. Some of them, says the Los Angeles Times, are the peppermint gum, lemon-scented gum, apple-scented gum and sugar gum. The crushed leaves of these trees actually have the designated odors. The peppermints are the tallest trees in the world. The almost unbelievable heights of the taller eucalyptus trees vary from 400 to almost 600 feet. It is said that there is one near Sydney, Australia, 525 feet high. One of the most common of these giants of the eucalyptus family is known as Eucalyptus polyanthemos, or the Australian beech. It is one of the hardiest and most drought resistant of the small types of eucalyptus.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Unreal parade:
Sonja Henie (pronounced Sonya Henry) has done all her earning of pennies in quantity since the spring of this year when she turned professional. . . . And she counts them in thousands rather than pennies. . . .
She is a blonde, exuberant Norwegian with brown eyes and a broad, good-natured grin. . . . She will be seen first in "Peach Edition." . . . At 25 she holds 10 world championships at figure-skating and three Olympics titles, plus a newly acquired movie contract, a big new white car, and a ready-made popularity in all the cities in which she has "danced on ice."

Griffith Reminiscences
David Wark Griffith, the old master, commented at a showing of some early movies, including specimens of his own, that "making pictures is writing on sand." . . . The films mostly bore him out, being interesting mainly as relics. . . . But a two-reel western of Griffith's, 1912 vintage, indicated that in some respects the movies haven't progressed greatly.
Griffith used cowboys, Indians, soldiers, much shooting, a baby, two dogs, fire and a ride to the rescue ending in a chase, and all those ingredients (especially babies and dogs and chases) are still being used successfully today.

It was interesting, too, to see how Griffith, perhaps unconsciously then, was building toward his 1915 triumph, "The Birth of a Nation," in which the same technique was employed more elaborately. . . . In this picture, appeared Lillian Gish and the late Bobby Barron, a diminutive Mae Marsh, and Henry B. Walthall as an Indian. . . . All later were to be Griffith's stars, after film actors acquired names.

Rapid Fire Atmosphere
The 1937 edition of "Gold Diggers" is under way—and illustrative of Hollywood speed in assembling types, here's the list the casting department filled in two and a half hours when a previous sequence was finished earlier than expected: 14 "practical" chefs (real cooks), eight English-accented butlers, two life guards, five expert high divers, 36 swimmers, eight proficient tennis players, four badminton players, one 18-piece orchestra with a leader to double as a saxophonist, one adagio dance team, an aerobic troupe, six white "beards," and six black "beards," one wooden-legged man, 50 formally dressed men and women. . . . All of them peopled an indoor set representing a Long Island estate with swimming pool, tennis courts, dance floor and trimmings.

Robert Taylor met Greta Garbo for the first time when they began "Camille" together. . . . He is her seventeenth leading man. . . . Gale Sondergaard (name still unchanged) goes into the Claudette Colbert film, "Maid of Salem" after scoring in "Anthony Adverse" . . . and Merle Oberon and David Niven, real-life romantic team, will be together in a picture for the first time, but Brian Aherne will get the girl. . . .

"Basket Makers," Weavers of Non-Leakable Vessels

When the cliff dwellers, from whom the Pueblo Indians of the Southwest is descended, came to Mesa Verde, now a National park in Colorado, says a writer in the New York Times, they found earlier occupants, who had perhaps been there for centuries. These were known as "Basket Maker 111." One of their circular, subterranean houses originally thatched over, resembles the kivas, ceremonial rooms of the cliff dwellers and the Pueblo Indians of today.

The Basket Makers were experts at weaving baskets, some of which are so tight that they will hold water. The Basket Makers also made sandals and were perhaps the first to fire pottery.

The Pueblo Indians took over the cliff dwellings, changing and adapting them to their own needs.
They improved on the building of houses, constructing them above ground so solidly that the walls in many cases are standing firmly.

The houses were built in clusters,
sometimes one on top of another.
The rooms are small, with small windows and doors, some of which are found sealed, the chambers having been used as tombs. In the back of the houses, against the canyon walls, are smaller rooms where grain was stored and turkeys were cooped (probably that their feathers might be used in making robes).

Women of the Stone Age Had Own Beauty Secrets

The ladies of Cleopatra's court took milk baths regularly. The idea wasn't as you may suspect, originated by more modern beauties.
Neither did the sirens of the modern stage figure out for themselves that mascara makes lashes look longer, eyes more luminous.
Women who lived hundreds of years ago didn't have fine, scientifically made mascara and eyelash dres, but they did have burnt cork and wood, and they blackened their lashes and brows with these.
states a writer in the New York World-Telegram.

It is said that women of American Indian tribes smeared their lips with black paint for state occasions. Generally, however, they used the juice of wild berries to dye their lips bright red.

Women of ancient Rome and Egypt had no tissue cream, but they anointed their bodies and their hair with oil, painted lips and cheeks with red berry juice.
Long before, women of the stone age crushed bits of white rock and powdered their faces with the dust.

Gray Califorms
Research among the archives of Fort Monroe, Va., reveals that the high-powered rifle was responsible for the change in color of uniforms of the United States Army from blue to olive drab. Blue, it was discovered, is visible at a longer distance than any other color, and makes an easy target for sharpshooters. Until after the Spanish-American war there were no guns accurate or high-powered enough to make any difference.

Cave Bear of Ice Age Scientists maintain that many of the "monsters" with which we grapple in our dreams are dim memories of the great beasts which roamed the earth when the human race was young. Among these ancient giants of the animal world was the cave bear of the Ice Ages, nearly as big as an elephant.

Whistle From Organ
A London, England, organ builder designed and manufactured, according to officials of the South Kensington Museum, what is believed to be the first whistle used on a locomotive. Until the whistle was invented at the suggestion of George Stephenson trains had no way of signaling their approach.

At The Theatres

Today

Broadway: "White Fang." The cold and blustery northland is the setting of this strange tale of a dog and a group of human beings with sold on their minds. The biggest single blessing of the show is its ability to cool off an audience during this warm weather with its snow scenes and its temperatures. As a play, "White Fang" will never be classified as especially awe-inspiring or interesting. The cast includes Michael Whelan, Jean Muir, Slim
Summerville, Jane Darwell, Charles Winniger and the dog Lightning. A fine cast, elaborate Alaskan settings, a plot centering around several people's desire to control a mine, should have made this 20th Century-Fox picture worthwhile.

Kingston: "Sins of Man" and "Stampede." The play Emil Jan-nings made into movie history years ago comes back again with Jean Hersholt in the role the famous German star made famous in silent picture days. As the bell ringer in a Tyrolean village, it tells of this man and his two sons and how one of them goes to America while the other stays home because of the affliction of deafness. The father's problems, struggles and triumphs as he works for the two boys' happiness ends when he is old, poverty-stricken and feeble and discovers that one of his long lost sons has become a great composer. The cast includes Don Ameche, Allen Jenkins, Fritz Leiber and Francis Ford. "Stampede" is a racy, exciting number from the pen of Peter B. Kyne and is the light offering on an otherwise heavy program.

Orpheum: "A Message to Garcia" and "Heroes of the Range." Revenge and revolution join forces in the first of the Orpheum features, a story of Cuba and how the U. S. government sends a messenger with instructions to General Garcia in the Cuban swamps. Wallace Beery, Barbara Stanwyck and John Boles head the players. "Heroes of the Range" tells of a United States Marshall who rounds up a band of desperadoes by becoming one of them. He courts death at every turn and is almost a superhero in the things he accomplishes in order to bring justice to a lawless country.
Ken Maynard, June Gale, Harry
Woods, Robert Kortman and Bud
McClure are featured.

Tomorrow:

Broadway: "Rhythm on the Range." The ever popular Bing Crosby goes masculine in a big way in the feature picture at the Broadway, the story of a singing cow hand who comes east and creates quite a stir singing "Empty Saddles" in a Madison Square Garden rodeo. Filled with action, songs, comedy and thrills, this is one of the best of the Crosby efforts and a fine supporting cast includes Francis Farmer and Martha Raye. It also marks the screen debut of Bob Burns of radio fame and the whole show is well entertainment of the highest caliber. Mr. Crosby sings several new song hits that are destined to be popular, but his "Empty Saddles" number is the song highlight of the show.

Kingston: "Public Enemy's Wife."
Here's the dramatic tale of a jailed public enemy who doesn't want his wife to re-marry while he is behind the bars. But for some reason or other that very thing occurs and the show becomes a hunt and chase series of episodes with great excitement prevailing here, there and everywhere. Those who like their movies melodramatic and filled with gun play and sinister goings-on will find this play thoroughly enjoyable.

garet Lindsay and Cesar Romero. A

Nick Grinde.

Red Flag in Exchange

New York, Aug. 21 (AP)—The hammer-and-sickle flag of Soviet Russia, the emblem of a political philosophy opposed to capitalism, was raised late yesterday on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange.
Boos and catcalls greeted its appearance. The flag was displayed in honor of Alexander A. Troyanovsky, Soviet ambassador to the United States, and Anasthasius I. Mikoyan, commisar for food industries, who visited the exchange as guests of Charles R. Gay, its president. The exchange regularly honors high officials of foreign governments by flying the flags of their countries from the northeast wall of the trading hall. The boos and catcalls occasioned by the raising of the flag subsided before the Russians entered the hall.

Estelle Taylor Injured

Chicago, Aug. 21 (AP)—Estelle Taylor, stage and screen actress, was knocked to the pavement early today by a hit and run driver. The former wife of Jack Dempsey was crossing Dearborn street at the north side of the Loop when the car struck her and raced away. Dudley Wilkinson, accompanist for Miss Taylor during her current singing engagement at a night club, and Sergeant James Coleman, who drove by in a police squad car, took her to her nearby hotel. There it was ascertained she had suffered only painful bruises.

25-Year Drouth Plan Considered

Chadron, Neb., Aug. 21 (AP)—A 25-year drouth program was contemplated today by members of the Great Plains drouth committee as they shaped recommendations for a report to President Roosevelt.

Morris L. Cooke, rural electrifi-cation administrator and chairman of the group, told a meeting of farmers here last night any effective plan undoubtedly would require that much time.

Cooke and his associates indicated they were considering the recommendation of rigid land and water conservation, state land zone laws, a stable system of credit for Great Plains farmers, and feasible irrigation and reclamation projects.

Lewis C. Gray, head of the land utilization division of the resettlement administration and special consultant for the committee on its 3-000-mile trip through the drouth area, said he did not believe there was a need for extensive shifting of farm families from the arid lands to other districts. He added:

"Nature itself already has thinned out the population in the bad sections."

Gray said there is need for a new credit system.
"Under the present system, banks make loans, encouraging expansion, during good crop growing years," he said. "Then in bad years they demand payment. What the farmers need is credit for necessary improvements but not for over-expansion."

He said a good zoning law is needed in each of the drouth states to force the return of unproductive crop lands to grass.

Certain "reforms" in farm practices to conserve lands and water also are needed, he said.

The committee will make its report to President Roosevelt late next week in South Dakota.
